Movies Now Course: Your Movie Club

This unique and popular movie appreciation course is like having your own private movie club. In its 17th year, Movies Now offers you 'private movie premieres' prior to their commercial release with each featured movie specially selected by the presenter and popular film critic, Andrew L Urban. The selected movies remain a secret until their screening to ensure that you approach each film on its own merits, uncompromised by outside opinions.

Following each screening, a special guest will join the group for a discussion designed to help explore the background of each film whilst analysing the themes and cinematic elements. Where possible, the special guests will include the filmmakers themselves. You will also be given access to the production notes of each film, providing background information about the film and the filmmakers.

Course duration

6 sessions, 15 hours total

Time

6:30 pm – 9 pm

Format

Face-to-face screenings delivered weekly

Content

You will experience a range of cinematic styles and genres, including foreign language films, exploring the whole spectrum of the human condition as conveyed on screen. Each movie is chosen to engage and challenge, to stimulate discussion and to explore how different filmmakers tell their stories.

Prerequisites

You must be 18 years of age or over.

Upon completion

Every participant receives a University of Sydney certificate of completion.

Outcomes

By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- appreciate and discuss films with a broader cinematic vocabulary
- recognise the importance of the many elements that make up a film, from the screenplay (story, subtext, context) to casting and performances, the direction, cinematography, design and music.
